40 Reel Frameworks For Salesmen

This guide is set up in three parts, please make sure you read the following:

1. The “Start Here” section
 - a. This section will teach you how to set up your bio, film yourself, and edit your posts for the highest likelihood of going viral.
2. The “Rookie-Facing Scripts” section
 - a. This section will give you viral scripts to use that will attract an audience of people who are not currently in sales
3. The “Experienced Rep Scripts” section
 - a. This section will give you viral scripts to use that will attract an audience of people who are already in sales. We only recommend you use these scripts if you are already very established in sales and have experience recruiting experienced reps from other companies.

Bio Set Up Guide

Instagram Bio Set Up (MAKE THIS CHANGE BEFORE POSTING 🚩)

Your bio should answer, in one glance:

- Who you are
- What you do / for who
- How to get in touch
- How you're connected to Drip Marketing

Follow this exactly.

Step 1: Update your Name field

Format:

First Name Last Name | Drip Marketing

Example:

Judd Wray | Drip Marketing

Step 2: Use this bio formula

Copy this, then fill in the brackets:

[Your role] at Drip Marketing [Location] | Helping [who] [result] | DM "INFO" to apply

Keep it short, clear, and specific. No buzzwords. Don't use words that a rookie audience wouldn't understand (i.e. instead of saying "Golden Door," say "Awarded for being top 1% salesman in D2D")

Examples:

Regional Manager at Drip Marketing Phoenix

Helping ambitious reps stack commission checks

DM "INFO" to apply

Team Lead at Drip Marketing Utah

Helping new reps learn high commission sales

DM "INFO" to join the team

Step 3: Add the region page

Under your bio, add your drip's handle as a link or tag.

Format:

🌐 Follow our team: @drip.mktg

Full Example:

Team Lead at Drip Marketing Utah

Helping new reps learn high commission sales

DM "INFO" to join the team

Follow our team: @drip.mktg

Step 4: Optional Changes

1. Set your website link to the official application / funnel link if you've made one
 2. "DM "INFO" to join the team" is optional as many of you aren't actively recruiting in the summer, but it should DEF be there when you're actually recruiting.

Final checklist

- Name field = "First Last | Drip Marketing"
- Bio uses the exact formula from Step 2
- @drip.mktg tagged in the last line

Filming Guide

How To Film Yourself With Your iPhone

IMPORTANT DISCLAIMER:

As you create pieces of content, please make sure all clips and videos follow your company's legal policies.

1. How the scripts work

There are 2 types of lines in your templates:

1. Scripted lines (exact words)

- Usually the hooks and key sentences.
- Say these word-for-word. We wrote them to get views and keep people watching.
- You do NOT need to memorize the whole script.

2. How to film them:

- Read one line at a time.
- Look at the line, look back at the camera, say it.
- Messed up? Just say the same line again.
- When editing, you can cut out the mistakes and dead space.

3. “Yap session” sections

- These will say something like: “Go on a 20-minute yap sesh about [topic].”
- This is where you just teach the principle in your own words.
- Pretend you're on FaceTime with a new rep you're mentoring.
- Keep these SIMPLE

4. How to film yap sessions:

- Look at the topic + recommended time.
- Hit record and talk straight through.
- Don't worry about being perfect. Just be clear and real.
- If you totally lose your train of thought, stop, take a breath, and start that idea again.

2. Can you change the script?

Yes, we encourage you to tweak the scripts if something feels unnatural coming out of your mouth, or you would prefer to say things in another way.

Rules:

- DON'T CHANGE THE HOOK IF AT ALL POSSIBLE
- Keep the same meaning and structure
- Don't turn simple lines into long, confusing ones.
- If you're not sure, use our version. It's written to perform.

3. Basic filming checklist (every time)

Before you hit record, run through this:

1. Camera position

- Use the back camera whenever possible
- Phone at eye level (not under your chin).
- Frame: your head and upper chest in the shot, a little space above your head.

2. Lighting

- Face a window if indoors. Light should hit your face, not your back.
- If indoors at night, stand under and slightly in front of the brightest light in the room.
- Avoid:
 - Bright window behind you (you'll look like a silhouette).
 - Half your face in shadow unless it's on purpose.

3. Background

- Simple and clean
- No messy bed, laundry pile, or people walking around behind you if indoors

4. Sound

- Try to be in the quietest place possible
- Hold the phone about an arm's length away if you're filming yourself.
- Don't cover the microphones with your hand.

5. Energy

- Talk 10–20% louder than you think you should.

How To Edit With CapCut

Introduction

While we have tried to make the edits in these templates as simple as possible, you will need to know basic editing skills to make them. For more complex edits, we have linked 1-min walkthrough videos at the bottom of the template to help you. If you have ZERO experience editing with the CapCut app, here are some basic tutorials to help you get started.

Cannon event: D2D money

(how it alters your brain)

SCRIPT:

I probably shouldn't be talking about this, but a cannon event that I wish more people could experience is {key moment/event} for the first time in your life.

Because once {result of that moment} hits, it changes everything.

You start to feel like {old identity shift / mindset change}.

The way you look at {money/success/value} shifts completely from {old perspective} to {new perspective}.

You stop thinking in terms of {old framework like time-for-money}, and start focusing on {new framework like inputs vs outputs / leverage / systems}.

And once your mind starts thinking like that, you move from a scarcity mindset into an abundance mindset.

A lot of people who reach this point, like {example group/role}, find it hard to go back to their old way of thinking.

The only reason someone would go back is usually {reason #1} or {reason #2}.

And when people talk about "{term for this experience}," it usually includes things like {examples of paths/vehicles}, basically anything where you get paid for {principle of income type}.

And I'm not claiming to be at some extreme level, but I do feel {personal outcome/feeling}, and I'm grateful for that.

I think more people should experience something like this because it can completely change how they think about {core belief area}, especially if they came from a place where {early limitation/belief condition}.

SCRIPT (you may use this line for line or go on a yap using your own words instead):

The reason why most people don't succeed in {sales/field} is because they take what customers say too literally.

So if a customer says, "{stall / follow-up objection}," and you just {passive action like waiting/following up later}, you've already lost.

You have to understand that what they're really saying is usually {true underlying meaning / hidden intent}.

So the skill is learning how to {interpret / decode / peel back} what they actually mean.

Most of the time, it's not about {surface objection} it's about {real hesitation / discomfort / uncertainty}.

So instead of accepting the surface answer, you get curious.

You ask questions like:

"{pattern interrupt clarification question #1}"

"{deeper objection question #2}"

The goal is to get to the real reason they're not moving forward.

Because once you understand the real reason, you can actually {resolve / reframe / close} it.

That's the difference between average reps and top performers: one takes words at face value, the other reads between the lines.
